Summary

Passionate about coding and web development, I have honed my skills in HTML, CSS, JavaScript, Node.js, and Python. I specialize in designing and implementing web services and APIs, optimizing front-end performance, and debugging cross-browser compatibility issues.

My experience includes contributing to open source projects and turning functionality requests into reality. I am known for writing clean, efficient code and have a knack for diagnosing and solving problems quickly.

I am always eager to learn more about new technologies and believe in writing code that is efficient, readable, and reusable. I am looking forward to bringing my programming expertise and passion for web development to a challenging role where I can help create incredible digital experiences.
